

You care about the health and safety of your employees, customers and the wider community. We do too.

Certainty in this uncertain time.

When a property has been subject to COVID-19 exposure Crawford Contractor Connection is ready to deploy a specialized team to conduct the cleanup.

Contractor Connection has developed a standard protocol for cleaning properties in alignment with the recently released Australian Government – Health Department cleaning guidelines.

Our service providers work efficiently to detail a site specific risk assessment, considering firstly whether the property has been known to be contaminated or whether the cleaning required is precautionary. We then work with you to develop a suitable scope and indicative cost to complete the decontamination.

In some settings we believe that all parties are best served with a formal clearance certificate from a suitably qualified Hygienist. Examples of such are aged care homes, medical facilities and other settings where known at risk persons reside.

You will want comfort that any cleaning efforts have been effective to ensure that your employees, customers and the wider community have been protected. On that score it's imperative to ensure that the right service providers are engaged and in these uncertain times that's one area where Contractor Connection can provide certainty.
